Natural teeth for longer

Endocare

Endocare, like many dentists is passionate about saving teeth. Endocare believes patients' teeth are too precious to extract without trying everything it can to preserve them first. That's why Endocare offers exceptional endodontic treatments to ensure patients can enjoy their natural teeth for longer.

Dentists who share this philosophy can consider referring endodontic cases to Endocare.

Working together

With three state-of-the-art facilities in Harley Street, Richmond and Moorgate and a team of experienced endodontic specialists, Endocare can offer cutting-edge treatments with empathy, compassion and care.

Endocare strives to always keep referring dentists fully informed about their patients' time at the Endocare clinic. Its aim is to become more than just a referral clinic - it wants to become an integral part of their treatment team.

Together Endocare and referring dentists can save more teeth. Dentists who think their patients would benefit from Endocare's specialist endodontic treatment, contact the team.

Restock before Christmas to win a luxurious hamper

Kemdent

Kemdent has announced its popular Christmas hamper promotion for 2015. To qualify for a free Christmas hamper, Kemdent customers need to spend £265 or more during November - a task that should present few problems given the wide range of offers on products currently available. In the run up to Christmas customers can buy more and save more on Diamond Rapid set capsules.

Tough, durable and resistant

The user friendly, pre-dosed glass polyphosphonate restorative material is a real alternative to posterior composites and amalgam. Packed in individual, easy to access foils, it is tough, durable and resistant to edge chipping.

After six months it develops a compressive strength of 350MPa and can be used to perform non-load bearing class I and II restorations, together with deciduous teeth, the sandwich technique and core build-ups.

With three sizes of Christmas hampers available, the more one spends in November on Kemdent products - such as Diamond restoratives and cross-infection products will ensure a larger Christmas hamper. (The hamper may differ slightly from the images).

Choose your colour with comfort

Belmont

Four new colours have been added to the Belmont palette in which Belmont chairs are available. These include: sonora, silver pearl, salmon and mandarin. With the power to influence the practice's mood and characterise its image, it is important to consider colour in the practice.

Personal preference is naturally a key factor in colour selection and an important decision to make when investing in a surgery chair that will see the dentist through years of practice.

From the most popular pastel light blue (standard CG19) to the second best-selling and always stylish, black (ultraleather raven wing), Belmont offers a diverse colour range of seamless and luxury fabrics to ensure dentists get just the right shade to complement their practice's personality.

Comfort is key

Comfort is just as important (if not more so than colour). Good looks can sometimes belie the comfort of a dental chair that is why Belmont's upholstery is available to order in Ultrasoft.

As the name suggests, the look and feel of this fabric exudes luxury and comfort. Arguably, a comfortable chair is a prerequisite for a relaxed working environment, specially when patients are undergoing lengthy treatments.

This New Year could be the time the surgery underwent a bit of a revamp. If so, pop along to Belmont's showroom to explore the functionality as well as the hues of the different models available.
