

FEEL THE PRESSURE OF REGULATIONS?

GOODMAN GRANT

Goodman Grant understands the pressures that dental professionals face when dealing with regulatory problems. Dentists want to concentrate on looking after patients and practising excellent dentistry, so let us take the strain.

NHS and CQC Disputes, and GDC representation can be complicated but considered legal advice from the team of specialist dental solicitors at Goodman Grant will make sure that their interests are protected properly.

Whatever the problem Goodman Grant will achieve the best results for their clients with detailed and exacting knowledge of regulations and how they are interpreted. With more than 20 years' experience representing dentists before their regulatory bodies, Goodman Grant offers dental sector expertise combined with a sound commercial approach.

ADI WELCOMES NEW PRESIDENT – CRAIG PARKER

ASSOCIATION OF DENTAL IMPLANTOLOGY

Earlier this month, the Association of Dental Implantology – the membership association and unbiased charity supporting all involved with dental implants – held their biennial members' national forum and annual general meeting (AGM) at the Royal College of Physicians, London.

ADI welcomed 24 speakers and four moderators to the two stages, for a varied selection of implant-related presentations from carefully selected members. Topics from speakers including Colin Campbell, Ashok Sethi and Anthony Bendkowski, covered peri-implantitis, grafts, full arch reconstruction, audit, cone beam CT, the role of the hygienist, and implant overdentures. During the day, the AGM was held that announced the new ADI committee line up and welcomed a new ADI president to the post. Leeds-based Craig Parker has taken over the two-year presidency position from Philip Friel. He said: 'I'm delighted to take over presidency of the ADI. Phil Friel has done a wonderful job over his two-year term and we have been working closely together to develop the ADI as the go-to organisation for everyone in implant dentistry.'

ELAINE HALLEY CHAIRS THE AESTHETIC DENTIST CONFERENCE

DENTISTRY SHOW 2016

Dr Elaine Halley has been announced as the chair of the educational programme for the aesthetic dentist conference at the Dentistry Show 2016.

She said: 'I'm very excited to present such a great spectrum of speakers exploring a broad variety of subjects. We will show how the digital age is now well within the realms of the GDP who has an interest in aesthetic dentistry.'

'The benefit of The Dentistry Show comes from the amount of thought and effort that goes into putting the programme together, ensuring each conference stream is relevant for those within the appropriate field. Delegates can trust that the speaker line-ups and topics are always different year on year, enabling them to access a wide spectrum of educational opportunity.' 'The event is also very well supported by the trade, so delegates can learn about materials and equipment and then speak to the manufacturers directly. This combination of education and access to the trade is fantastic.'
